We model ourselves on the ideals of Father Adolph Kolping (1813-1865). Our founder was a shoemaker, priest, social reformer, pastor and became known as the 'father of the journeymen' for his work with apprentices during the industrial revolution. Father Kolping believed in improving the lives of workers through self-help and a sense of community. He brought about social change and helped working men develop into good Christians, workers, spouses, parents, and citizens. He was beatified by Pope John Paul II on October 27, 1991.
